

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A lossless data compression system comprising a content addressable memory dictionary 30 and a coder 38, characterised by run length encoding means 39 connected to receive the output of the coder 38, said encoding means 39 being arranged to count the number of times a match consecutively occurs at a predetermined dictionary location.